The Giving Season Kicks Off Early at Bulky Waste Day

At the City’s new fall Bulky Waste Day, with Republic Services, 96 tons of unwanted material was disposed of by more than 300 Wilsonville residents. Because Bulky Waste Day is provided at no charge, the City encourages participants to bring toiletry donations for Wilsonville Community Sharing. Robert Todd of Republic Services and Javid Yamin of the City’s Public Works department, pictured, delivered nearly 30 bins full of donated items!

Water Pipeline Installation Set to Resume This Summer

The Willamette Water Supply Program (WWSP) is coordinating with the City of Wilsonville to construct a water pipeline and transportation improvements near the 5th Street/Kinsman Road Extension Project.

Construction is scheduled to begin in the summer of 2019, with completion anticipated in 2020. Work is likely to begin at the south end of the project area near Arrowhead Creek Lane and conclude on Kinsman Road, just north of Wilsonville Road.

Wilsonville Road is expected to remain open during the day, with construction occurring primarily at night. One lane of Kinsman Road is to remain open (southbound) during the Kinsman Road section of pipeline construction.

The project provides community improvements, including upgraded crosswalks and the installation of a turn lane for northbound Kinsman Road at Wilsonville Road to improve traffic flow and public safety.

The Willamette Water Supply Program is developing the mid-Willamette River as a regional water supply source. When operational in 2026, the new system is to provide a reliable water supply for the region by helping water system operators balance supply during times of drought or other supply interruptions, and recover more quickly after a large disaster.

In the future, the WWSP is connecting the Kinsman Road portion to the recently completed pipeline at SW Grahams Ferry Road near Day Road. In addition, the WWSP is making seismic improvements to the existing Willamette River Water Treatment Plant intake that WWSP shares with Wilsonville and other regional water providers. Work includes the installation of a pipeline through the park, and facility improvements.

For 5th Street to Kinsman Extension project information and updates, visit ci.wilsonville.or.us/5thtoKinsman or contact Steve Adams, Engineering Manager, at adams@ci.wilsonville.or.us; or 503-682-4960.

Election Results: Lehan, West Win City Council Seats

November’s general election included a vote for two open seats on the Wilsonville City Council. Unofficial results at press time indicate that incumbent Charlotte Lehan (5,318 votes) and first-time elected official Ben West (4,170) are set to begin four-year terms on the five-member Council in January. Lehan and West outdistanced John Budiao (4,066) and David Davis (3,554), who were also vying for an open seat.

Charlotte Lehan
Ben West

West and Lehan are being sworn-in on Jan. 7, 2019. West replaces outgoing Council President Scott Starr, who did not seek re-election in 2018 after two serving two four-year terms. Starr’s successor as Council president is to be determined by the Council on Jan. 7.

Mayor’s Message: Council Ready to Listen, Establish New Two-Year Goals

Thank you to everyone who voted in November’s general election for exercising your right as a U.S. citizen. Your vote really does make a difference, especially at the local government level.

Many of you are glad to be past the intensive election season. This year, four candidates sought to put their unique perspectives and expertise to work for Wilsonville.

Congratulations to Councilors Charlotte Lehan and Councilor-Elect Ben West, and hats off to John Budiao and David Davis.

In January, Mr. West inherits the seat being vacated by Council President Scott Starr, who chose not to seek re-election.

I want to thank Scott for eight years of dedicated service to Wilsonville. His contributions are many, including working to continue the City’s admirable commitment to fiscal responsibility, leading the charge to develop new youth-sports programming opportunities, and chairing the Urban Renewal Task Force through a number of challenging decisions.

I look forward to convening the newly-empowered Council early next year to establish goals and priorities for next two years. We seek to address our community’s biggest challenges, including responsible growth, affordable housing opportunities and transportation improvements.

Of course, we will continue to work with federal, state and regional governmental partners to advocate for Wilsonville’s interests and pursue cost-effect solutions.

Our goal-setting exercise is a collaboration among City Councilors and staff, bearing little resemblance to what takes place on the national stage. The Council strives to listen, build consensus and take actions in the best long-term interest of Wilsonville. Council and staff work diligently to move our community forward, within the financial, personnel and time constraints that we all recognize are a reality.

We have accomplished a lot by remaining respectful, non-partisan and open-minded, with each Council member driven by a similar desire – ensuring that Wilsonville remains a great place to live, to work and to play.

So much of our job is simply listening and responding to the community’s needs and desires. We appreciate residents, businesses and other community members who communicate with us at meetings, in surveys, on social media or face-to-face. Your continuing individual involvement helps us understand how each policy choice, initiative and priority affects our community.

Please call me at 503-896-0048 or send an email to mayor@ci.wilsonville.or.us (as if you have an idea or concern that might inform this year’s goal-setting. Together, we can move our community forward.

Have a happy holiday season!

Tim Knapp, Mayor

Have a Big Idea? City Seeks Community Enhancement Projects for Funding Consideration

The City is accepting online project nominations for the Wilsonville-Metro Community Enhancement Program, which offers local stakeholders an opportunity to seek funding for a wide array of projects beneficial to the community.

Eligible projects can improve the appearance or environmental quality of the community, increase reuse and recycling opportunities or improve recreational areas and programs.

Projects may be nominated until Monday, Jan. 21, via the City’s website: ci.wilsonville.or.us/CommunityEnhancementProject. Nominations may be submitted by individuals or organizations seeking to oversee a sponsored-project.

Wilsonville Moves One Step Closer to Strategy for Development of Arts, Heritage and Cultural Programs

More than 30 community stakeholders gathered at the Wilsonville Library in late October to discuss development of the City’s public investment strategy for Arts, Heritage and Culture. The Clackamas Arts Alliance (CCAA), is managing the project, which has been informed by one-on-one interviews with key community stakeholders, an online survey, and community input gathered at several Wilsonville-area events, including the Wilsonville Festival of the Arts.

Included in the presentation, led by CCAA and Taylor Consulting, was the 2016 Arts & Economic Prosperity Study, compiled by Americans for the Arts, with details demonstrating how the arts benefit Clackamas County. In 2015, Arts and Culture spending in Clackamas County exceeded $14 million.

Successes from similar communities were shared, including the Chehalem Cultural Center in Newberg and Sherwood’s Center for the Arts. The discussion included crowdsource funding for community arts projects and funding for community foundations.

Funding options through Transient Occupancy Tax, Percent for Art, Metro Community Enhancement Grants and other sources were also discussed. Participants engaged in lively discussion about leveraging the Parks and Recreation Master Plan and the Town Center Plan to develop future arts opportunities, and created a diverse wish list for Wilsonville that included repurposing vacant buildings, creating a Culture Commission, expanding joint use of City and WLWV School District buildings, establishing a community foundation, enhancing parks to include event space and expanding exhibit space at the library.

A report to provide City Council with updates and strategic recommendations was scheduled for mid-November. A public strategy document for arts, heritage and culture is soon being made available for public comment, which is taken into consideration as a final plan is prepared for City Council consideration and adoption in 2019.

When Solicitors Call, Hold on Tight to Your Personal Information

Don’t let scammers become the beneficiaries of your holiday giving. Proceed with caution when someone calls identifying himself or herself with a charitable organization.

"Nowadays 90% of the time, an incoming solicitation phone call is more than likely going to be an unscrupulous call," said Wilsonville attorney Shawn O’Neil, who educates local seniors and other community members targeted by phone and internet scams.

"Even if they may have good intentions, when someone approaches you or initiates a call to you, your first answer should be ‘no’ or ‘let me look into this, and I will get back to you,’" O’Neil said. “Never give any financial or personal information to them during this initial contact until you are certain they are legitimate.”

Scammers steal billions of dollars each year by coercing people to give cash, credit card information or social security numbers – information that can lead to identity theft and Medicare numbers – information that can lead to identity theft and empty bank accounts.

They may use sophisticated or heart-wrenching stories to get the information they covet, including:

• pretending to be a relative who is injured or in need of financial assistance
• offering financial awards or prizes that may only be claimed after confirming personal details
• claiming to be a Medicare provider needing personal information to ensure benefits be claimed after confirming personal details
• pretending to be a relative who is injured or in need of financial assistance
• offering financial awards or prizes that may only be claimed after confirming personal details
• claiming to be a Medicare provider needing personal information to ensure benefits

"Nowadays 90% of the time, an incoming solicitation phone call is more than likely going to be an unscrupulous call," O’Neil said. "It’s unfortunate, because that’s when they need their family support the most.”

Before making important financial decisions, O’Neil advises seniors to discuss their plans with trusted advisors who don’t have an economic interest in their decision-making.

"While it may be challenging to find people you can trust, these disinterested advisors can help seniors evaluate their decisions," O’Neil said.

Eager to give? O’Neil suggests reaching out to an organization you already know and trust.

Do the research and initiate the conversation with charities you choose to support," O’Neil said. For more information on Oregon Charities, visit Oregon Department of Justice Charitable Activities Division database at: doj.state.or.us/charitable-activities.

SMART Gets Sky High Marks in City’s Community Survey

Wilsonville’s South Metro Area Regional Transit (SMART), scored exceptionally high marks in the City’s 2018 National Citizen Survey.

SMART earned the fifth-highest favorability rating in the nation among more than 200 communities in which residents were surveyed about their satisfaction with local transit services. Additionally, SMART rated 10th among 200+ communities in which residents were asked about the “ease of travel by public transportation” in their city.

The statistically-valid National Citizen Survey, administered by the National Research Center in Boulder, Colo., is a tool used by cities nationwide to assess resident perspectives on many facets of community and local governance.

SMART Transit Director Dwight Brashear attributes Wilsonville’s satisfaction with SMART services to a staff that emphasizes friendly customer service and drivers who excel at reaching destinations safely and on schedule.

“The agency periodically conducts satisfaction surveys to gauge customer expectations and address service deficiencies.

“We thrive when the community believes public transit is a better alternative than travel by car,” Brashear said. “We want to take good care of every passenger who steps on to one of our buses, so they’re encouraged to keep riding.”

New Online System to Gather Data on Traffic Safety Concerns

The City of Wilsonville is introducing a new feature on its website that allows motorists, cyclists and pedestrians to provide details about any traffic concerns within city limits.

The City’s Community Development team has developed the Citizen Traffic Concern program with the Wilsonville Police Department to more quickly identify safety concerns on Wilsonville streets. By collecting this data, City engineers and WPD patrols can better understand the areas of most concern, and more quickly identify solutions that mitigate problems or increase community awareness.

“As people provide us with information, our data will be sorted and mapped to clearly identify the areas of significant need,” said Nancy Kraushaar, Director of Community Development. “Our engineers and public works crews can work most efficiently by focusing our efforts on the most problematic areas.”

Residents can visit ci.wilsonville.or.us/traffic-concerns to log their concerns. The Citizen Traffic Concern page is linked from the ‘Resources’ menu, accessible from any page on the site.

Each month, City and WPD staff will gather to review incoming comments, identify any trends, establish priorities and develop potential solutions that can mitigate safety threats and keep traffic moving.

“No matter how you get around – by bike, by car, by foot – if you notice something that makes our roadways less safe, let us know so we can try to identify a solution,” Kraushaar said. “Don’t assume we already know.”

For more information, contact Patty Nelson, City Engineer, 503-570-1567; nelson@ci.wilsonville.or.us.

As people log the location of safety concerns online, City officials can spot problem areas and establish service priorities.

CD Director Kraushaar Retires; Two Join City’s Executive Team

In late November, City of Wilsonville employees bid farewell to retiring Community Development Director, Nancy Kraushaar, who has provided oversight of the City’s building, engineering, natural resources, planning and urban renewal divisions since 2012.

“T’ll always value working with our talented staff and forward-thinking elected officials,” Kraushaar said. “I’ve enjoyed playing a role in implementing the great planning the City has done for decades, including new parks and neighborhoods in Villebois and safe, improved connections throughout the city for motorists, cyclists and pedestrians.”

Kraushaar’s contributions have better prepared the city for the eventual buildout of the Coffee Creek and Basalt Creek employment areas, secured more sustainable funding resources to build and maintain the City’s infrastructure, and ensured that the I-5 Southbound Boone Bridge ramp-to-ramp improvements were included in the Oregon Transportation Commission’s 2018 Oregon Highway Plan update.

“The City has been very fortunate to benefit from Nancy’s leadership and expertise for six great years,” City Manager Bryan Cosgrove said. “She’s capably managed many community improvements while also providing support and guidance to lift the talented team of people who will continue to innovate and move Wilsonville forward.”

As the City begins a search for Kraushaar’s successor, two long-time employees join the executive team following recent promotions. Kathy Rodocker, who served as Assistant Director of Finance since 2004, is the City’s new Finance Director.

After serving most recently as Information Services Manager, Andy Stone assumes a new role as the City’s Director of Information Services. Stone began his career with the City in 1999.

“We’re very fortunate to have an opportunity to add two very qualified, intelligent leaders to the City’s core decision-making team,” Cosgrove said. “Cathy and Andy both have a vast amount of institutional knowledge and expertise, and these appointments allow them to be even greater assets to the community.”

Keith Katko, formerly the City’s Senior Accountant, moves into Rodocker’s former role as Assistant Director of Finance. Katko has been with the City since 1999.

Additionally, Martin Montalto joined the City in October as the City’s Public Works Operations Manager. Montalto, who most recently worked in a similar capacity for the City of Oregon City, has more than 17 years of experience in public works and emergency management operations.

Holiday Giving Tips

Helping others makes people happier, it can be contagious, and it is said to help you live longer. Before you give, here are a few things to keep in mind.

1. Don’t donate perishable items that have been opened or that have expired: “Just because someone is in need, they don’t deserve to eat something half-used, or open or outdated. These are our neighbors who have come across a hard time,” said Leigh Crosby, Food Bank Director for Wilsonville Community Sharing.

2. Donate only temporary help: “Those concerned about addressing homelessness can best serve people by donating to the agencies that serve them to ensure that the funds are used in appropriate ways,” Crosby said.

3. Need knows no season. Next year, consider donating early: “Between March and October, is when we get the fewest monetary donations and the fewest food donations,” Crosby said.

COUNCILOR’S CORNER: SCOTT STARR

This month, my eight-year tenure on the Wilsonville City Council comes to an end. It’s been a satisfying journey.

One of the things I am most proud of is that I believed 80 percent of the decisions were black and white, and 20 percent were gray. I quickly learned the opposite is true. Nearly every decision must be made with gray for the gray, the unintended consequences. That’s where the hard work comes in.

The activities, the meetings … those were about what I expected to be the priority. The big thing, the $600-page report to prepare? THAT was the big eye-opener. Issues are often like icebergs. You can see 10 percent above water, but not the 90 percent below the surface.

One of the promises I made when I ran was financial stewardship. I believe we’ve generated extraordinary lengths on big projects — including the Wastewater Treatment Plant, SMART headquarters, the Willamette Water Supply’s Big Pipe project — to deliver extraordinary value for our tax base. We must spend other peoples’ money with the same care we spend our own.

I am proud that we accomplished a $1 million budget cut my first year without eliminating City jobs. We’ve been able to deliver for the community in large part because we have a strong, smart team in place at City Hall that can execute on the community’s behalf.

Our city officials are transparent and customer-driven, and a big part of that is Doug Cosgrove as City Manager. We told them these traits were a priority, we felt like he was a great match, and he has delivered on his promise.

It’s not always enough to tell citizens ‘come talk to me’! I was proud to challenge the Willamette Renewal Task force with residents, businesses, partner agencies and the Chamber of Commerce that gave everyone in our community a voice even before we sought public testimony. When a recommendation was made to Council, it came directly from the community.

When you represent more than 20,000 people in a place you’re passionate about, it’s impossible not to feel that weight. You have to do things right for the people who have supported you, as well as those with whom you don’t always agree.

I worked hard to enhance City relationships with property owners and local business owners, important segments of the tax base that sought better representation. I worked just as hard for a much smaller, shorter segment of the community — young athletes — working to provide more field space and other opportunities to participate.

I’ve embraced my time as public servant, and have appreciated the Council’s ability to work together in the City’s best interest. Wilsonville loses if we start to treat this more partisan.

Come January, I won’t seek election again, but I will still be an advocate for serving all citizens, and now. I know the right people to call. I’ve embraced and enjoyed the role of public servant, and am happy to call this city home.

Scott Starr, City Council President

Light Rail in Wilsonville? ODOT Seeks Input

For years, ODOT has studied ways to improve inter-city passenger rail service between Portland and the East, including Wilsonville. A Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS) describes the project’s benefits and alternatives, and examines the potential social, economic and environmental impacts of two possible routes to accommodate increased passenger service.

• Alternative 1, identified as the preferred alternative, follows the existing Amtrak Cascades passenger rail route.

• Alternative 2 is a primarily new route between Springfield and Oregon City that includes Wilsonville. An open online house is available for people to provide public comment on the project and its impacts. Feedback must be provided by Dec. 18 to be considered in the Final Impact Statement before FRA makes its final decision.

Wilsonville Winter Festival Returns

The Wilsonville Winter Festival, featuring performances from Wilsonville High School students and performances from various musical and performing arts groups, takes place on Saturday, Dec. 15, 2-5 pm, in the school’s gymnasium.

The cost is $25 per family of four, plus $10 per additional family member. Dinner (spaghetti, salad, breadsticks, cookies, non-alcoholic beverages) is included. Cost is based on a sliding scale; all are invited to attend. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Musical performances include Wilsonville High School choir, Sould Out, orchestra, band, drama students, among others. Artwork from across the school district will also be displayed.

The Winter Festival is presented by Wilsonville Chamber of Commerce, Music and Arts Partners, a volunteer, non-profit organization that addresses funding gaps for arts and music within the Wilsonville School District.

It is funded, in part, by a Community Opportunity Grant awarded to Music and Arts Partners earlier this year by the City of Wilsonville. The grant also funds future festivals at Lowrie Primary, Wood Middle School, and Meridian Creek Middle School.
